A LETTER FROM OUR FOUNDER

As we welcome 2025, we leave behind a year of turmoil and fear, stepping into a hopeful chapter rooted in resilience, humanity, and hope.

2024 was a year marked by challenges that tested the strength of our communities. Ahla Fawda stood alongside families facing displacement, loss, and uncertainty, responding swiftly to provide relief and dignity where it was most needed.

The EcoHub became a lifeline, transforming into a full-time support center where individuals could access essential items and find a sense of comfort and hope. Despite the hardships, we found inspiration in the unwavering resilience of the people we serve. Mothers carefully choosing clothes and books for their children, the youth volunteering, and neighbors rallying to support one another reminded us why we do this work.

This year, we expanded our Green Heroes network to include over 100 partners, reinforcing our commitment to sustainability and environmental stewardship. Alongside this, we grew our upcycling programs, introducing new workshops on fabric, plastic, and glass while launching our upcycling production line to give waste a second life. Through our vibrant mural projects, we celebrated the power of art to heal and bring communities together. Each initiative reflected our belief that community engagement is the foundation for meaningful and lasting change.

As we look to 2025, we remain dedicated to fostering sustainability, environmental awareness, and community empowerment. With gratitude for the lessons learned and the support of our partners and stakeholders, we are ready to continue this journey of transformation, hand in hand with our community.

Thank you for being part of our story. Together, we turn challenges into opportunities and build a future filled with hope, resilience, and positive change.

WAR RELIEF MISSION - OVERVIEW

The war on Lebanon displaced over 1.2 million people, leaving many in desperate need of shelter, food, and basic supplies. Families were living in overcrowded schools, cars, abandoned buildings, and makeshift tents.

At Ahla Fawda, we were committed to providing immediate relief to those most affected. Through the EcoHub, we distributed vital resources to families in both registered and unregistered shelters.

This mission wouldn't have been possible without the generous support of our partners:

WAR RELIEF MISSION - ECOHUB | SEP-DEC 2024

Our EcoHub was transformed into a central relief and distribution hub for displaced families during the war. Operating Monday through Saturday, it provided essential aid to those seeking refuge in cars, abandoned buildings, and makeshift shelters. Volunteers played a crucial role in managing distributions, restocking the Dekkene, and ensuring that families' immediate needs were met.

The EcoHub, a community center at its core, continued to operate at full capacity during the crisis, offering a safe haven for our team, volunteers, and those in need, while providing essential aid and moral support.

WAR RELIEF MISSION - SHELTERS | SEP-NOV 2024

During the war, we extended our relief efforts to registered shelters, primarily schools housing displaced families. In partnership with Barzakh Space and Chef E, we provided daily meals, feeding 2,000 people over 65 days.

Beyond meals, we organized activities like movie nights, games, and celebrations to bring joy to displaced families, especially children, creating a heartfelt bond, reinforcing our commitment to stand by them in difficult times.

WAR RELIEF MISSION - COMMUNITY RELIEF KITCHENS IN SHELTERS | NOV 2024

Recognizing the importance of familiar, home-cooked meals for displaced families, we established community relief kitchens in schools serving as shelters. Supported by external grants, including FHI360 USAID, these kitchens were equipped with kitchen equipments and fresh ingredients, empowering families to prepare their own meals.

This initiative restored a sense of autonomy and dignity, fostering resilience during a time of displacement. It also promoted sustainability by reducing food waste and packaging, transforming the act of cooking into a source of comfort and community rebuilding.
